

8 SPOOKY HALLOWEEN ACTIVITIES WITH THE MOUTH MONSTERS AROUND THE COUNTRY

Beware! The Mouth Monsters are haunting Halloween celebrations from coast to coast! Don't forget to help children brush and floss those pearly whites to ward off any Mouth Monsters disguised as tasty treats this Halloween.

CHICAGO

Chicago's famous vanished City Cemetery built in the 1800s was relocated, but it still contains thousands of unmarked tombstones. Tooth D.K. joins a ghost tour to look for spirits still haunting the Windy City.

COLUMBUS

Ginger Bite-Us gets a head start on candy collecting in Columbus, Ohio during Beggars Night. A unique Halloween tradition most commonly found in Ohio, trick-or-treaters ask for Halloween treats on October 30.

DALLAS

Tartar the Terrible tours Reindeer Manor with the home's resident ghosts to learn the real haunted history of the oldest haunted house in Texas.

LOS ANGELES

Halloween isn't always about candy! Tooth D.K. builds some plaque and cavity formations during Legoland's annual Brick-Or-Treat celebration.

MIAMI

Built in the 1920s, the Biltmore Hotel is Miami's best-known haunted hotel. Ginger Bite-Us keeps an eye out for ghosts during dinner in the grand ballroom.

ORLANDO

Halloween isn't very scary at the "Happiest Place on Earth." Tartar the Terrible visits the Magic Kingdom for Mickey's official Not So Scary Halloween Party.

PHILADELPHIA

Tooth D.K. is put behind bars for haunting little teeth during ghost tours at Philadelphia's historic Eastern State Penitentiary.

SAN ANTONIO

All three Mouth Monsters feel right at home during the annual Monster Bash at the San Antonio children's museum (The DoSeum).

No matter where you are this Halloween, remember that brushing and flossing your teeth twice a day will help scare the Mouth Monsters away. For more information, visit mychildrensteeth.org
